

Press release from Wycliffe Bible Translators

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

13 March 2009

Wycliffe hosted events

Wycliffe and Me

Saturday 9th May – Belfrey Hall, York. This is a one-day event looking at Bible translation and the wide variety of roles associated with this kind of work. There will be plenty of information about how people can get involved in translation projects or associated roles that do not require a second language, both in the UK and overseas. More information and a booking form can be obtained from the Wycliffe website, www.wycliffe.org.uk/wycliffeandme (tiny url: <http://tiny.cc/Ucxd9>)

Engage summer teams

This summer, Wycliffe UK will be sending groups on short-term assignments to Burkina Faso, Cambodia and Cameroon. The teams will be visiting various translation projects and will have the chance to learn about cross-cultural working and Bible translation, as well as being able to give some practical support to people on full-time assignments in these countries.

Space is still available, with training for these trips beginning in early April. For more information visit the Wycliffe website www.wycliffe.org.uk/engage (tiny url <http://tiny.cc/Cwtv7>)
