

New Director of Mobilisation for Wycliffe Bible Translators UK

Attila Kovacs is the new Director of the Mobilisation team at Wycliffe Bible Translators in the UK.

Attila, who first came into contact with Wycliffe by volunteering at the UK base in Buckinghamshire in the early 90s, has, until recently, been serving as the Executive Director of Wycliffe Hungary. He is now looking forward to the challenge of mobilising the UK church.

“There are great opportunities with Wycliffe for people of all ages and all backgrounds. It’s not just about language work, support staff are vital to keeping operations going and we are always looking for people who can become part of the team based here in the UK.”

“Currently, there are over 300 million people waiting for a Bible translation to start in their language so there’s a big need. I’m looking forward to getting out and about and talking to individuals, and church leaders, about what’s going on with Bible translation how they can get involved.”

At a short handing over ceremony, John Hamilton, the outgoing director, was full of praise and encouragement for his successor, wishing Attila, “every blessing and success in his new role”.

Wycliffe Bible Translators, the UK's biggest Bible translation organisation, works with partners worldwide to ensure that every community around the world has access to a Bible in a language that they can fully understand. In more than 70 years of history they have been involved in the translation of 759 New Testaments and Bibles, reaching around 107 million people. Since 1999, Wycliffe has contributed to over 80% of translation projects started in Bibleless people groups. However there remains a massive need, as statistics show that there are around 353 million people from 2,252 languages still waiting for translation to begin.
